

PEACE RIVER PRESBYTERY

Weekly Presbytery Letter ~ May 12, 2017 Rev. Graham P. Hart, General Presbyter

Preview of the May 2017 Presbytery Meeting

(Adapted from the May 18th General Presbyter's Report to the Presbytery)

So... the leaders of the congregation, in a retreat setting, shared stories about when they thought their church's "turn around" began. It was a great conversation because it was so different from past conversations in this church.

Ten years ago, their focus was on conversations about: isn't it awful, and everything that was wrong. But now the conversations are focused on what God is doing in their community and church. They are responding to needs, near and far. They decided their congregation's re-vitalization was not just one thing, but a whole bunch of things.

"Turn around," however one defines that reality, is always a combination of many things. It is contextual. What is right in one place may not be the answer in another. But, in every case, "something" changed, then a whole bunch of things changed.

So where does a person, pastor or a congregation start? Maybe it is just to have the conversation. To ask questions. To listen and learn from each other.

A goal, hope and prayer of PRP's Steering Committee is that every pastor and session, either before or after every Presbytery meeting for the rest of 2017/18 will intentionally engage in some conversation around the theme for that meeting, which will be about some aspect of Congregational Vitality. Bill Teng, of the Planning Team, sent a letter to all pastors and Clerks of Session prior to this meeting, encouraging each Session to have some intentional conversation around the theme of the May 18th Presbytery meeting.

For those who are not on sessions, the reflection questions sent out prior to this meeting are:

| 1. What makes worship inspiring and engaging for you and for a new person in your congregation? |
| 2. Think about the difference between living/vital traditions in our worship and dead traditionalism in our services. |
| 3. Think about the relational qualities of worship that affect our experience of it. |

Peace River Presbytery is in a 2-year emphasis on Congregational Vitality and Growth. The Steering Committee has adopted the following definition of a vital and growing church:

A vital and growing church is one that celebrates the Great Commandment through inspiring and life-transforming worship, nurturing discipleship, compassionate and inclusive outreach, and radical, grace-filled generosity.

At our February meeting, Ray Jones began our focus and conversation. He shared with us the Seven Signs of Congregational Vitality, which the PCUSA has identified as making a difference, and as key and critical for congregational vitality:

1. Lifelong Christian Formation
2. Healthy Systems
3. Intentional Evangelism
4. Outward Incarnational Focus
5. Empowering Servant Leadership
6. Inspiring Worship
7. Caring Relationships Happen

The Steering Committee, the Congregational Vitality Team and the Planning Team have adopted that list, so at each of our meetings for 2017/18 we will focus on one aspect of a vital and growing congregation. (see the Steering Committee's report for details.)

At next week's Presbytery meeting, Bill Teng, pastor of the Arcadia Church, followed by the panel of 4, will be leading us in conversation about Inspiring and Engaging Worship. Winston Lawson, recently honorably retired, who served congregations in Atlanta before retiring, and is known for his strong worship leadership, will be preaching. We thank First Presbyterian Church, Arcadia for their hospitality.

As we move into this year, giving intentional focus on congregational vitality and growth, I wonder:

- How will just having a conversation at a session meeting begin to affect change?
- How will it change the Presbytery?
- What would happen if pastors in regions gathered to share thoughts and ideas about congregational vitality and growth; and to pray for one another?
- What exciting thing is God going to do next?
- What congregation will catch the vision to develop an outreach to the unchurched in their area and maybe begin a 1001 Worshipping Community to reach them?
- What might the relationship with Matanzas Presbytery in Cuba teach us about congregational vitality when times are tough?
- What new program or initiative will emerge in our presbytery and in a congregation, that our Blessing Grants Initiative for congregational growth and vitality will encourage?
- How will we respond to the challenges of this year, which always come as an opportunity to grow as well?

Additionally, as a Presbytery, I would encourage us to continue to pray for the Beth-El community as they grieve, pray, and seek healing because of the arrest of the Pastor for their Worshipping Community in Wimauma. I invite us to pray for Walter Chuquimia, who is a Pastor in Peace River Presbytery. Walter, as we have announced in the past 2 weeks, was arrested on 3 counts of sexual battery. There is much in life we don't understand, and we pray for healing for all who have been hurt and broken and are grieving. We pray that God would be at work in Walter's life and he would know something of the grace, mercy and love of God, even as he is accountable to the authorities and is responsible for his actions. The Presbytery's Sexual Misconduct Response Team has been following our protocol, and has been responsive to all affected and involved, and our Pastoral Care Team has also been involved as appropriate.

Finally, I invite all pastors and congregations to consider a partnership with one of the congregations in Matanzas Presbytery in Cuba, and our September 28-October 2 (or 3) Pastor/Spouse retreat in Varadero, Cuba.

*Grateful to our God...
Who is the Wind in our Sails... and the Rudder to Guide us along the Way!*
